In Thailand, school is a really important part of kids lives. Just like in many other Countries, students wear uniforms to look neat and show they are part of the same same School. Classes usually start Early in the morning and go until late afternoon. Thai kids study many subjects like math science, History and the thai language. But what's super interesting is is that they also learn english and sometimes even a third language! That's alot of different languages! Most schools have a flag-raising ceremony evry morning. where everyone sings the national Anthem and pays respect to the the Thai flag. It's a special way start the day and it helps kids remember how important their country is.

But school in Thailand isn't always serious. Kids also get to do really fun stuff like art, music and, sports. Sports are a big deal, and many schools have soccer fields, basketball Courts and even swimming pools! Thai schools also celebrate fun festivals and Holidays. One of the the coolest is Songkran, which the is Thai New Year. During Songkran, everyone has fun with water fights. kids throw water at each other and its like a big, wet, happy party. school in Thailand is not only a place to learn but than also a place to have lots of fun and make make lifelong friends! The next time your thinking about Thailand, remember how interesting their schools are are.
